The explosion of a locomotive boiler on the Savannah, Florida & Western Railroad caused the death of an engineer and fireman.

W. T. BROOK, a prominent attorney of Florence, Ala., was shot to death by J. Edgar Lytle, a saloon-keeper.

THREE Oakaloosa (Iowa) residents selected as targets for rifle practice a magazine in which they were interested, but when they were discovered, they fled. Mr. Heath (Ala.) offered a $1,000 reward for the capture of their assailant, and especially when such an offer is regarded by custom as unusual. "The public does not understand that it is necessary for him to make himself by speech or reply," said one of his friends. "They do not understand that their conduct is an insult to us." All that he does is to protest against it, as it is for us to protest against it.

It is believed that the present Congress will pay more attention to war claims than the last. There are, however, no bills which may be termed legitimate war claims. North and South, before the Committee, a number of which were pending before the last and previous Congresses. Among these is the Pennsylvania war claim, known as the border claim, in which is involved some $30,000,000. This is for damages done and property taken by the Union and Confederate troops in the Gettysburg campaign, during Lee's raid in Pennsylvania.

It is believed that the present Congress will not undertake an investigation of the claims changing their title, but that they will be referred to the Select Committee on War Claims.

THE railroad and express office at Gladstone, 200 miles west of Bismarck, D. C., was broken open and mail pouches were rifled while two watchmen were quickly seized.

The diplomatic scandal in Washington last winter which resulted in the recall of certain attachés from France, Spain and Brazil, is resolved by the appearance of the disgruntled young men. They were expelled from the Metropolitan Club, and further from the elite of West End society, and those who were reported to Secretary Blaine, who now has the matter in charge, have been confined almost exclusively to Western states.

A VIENNA telegram states that in an encounter between six gendarmes and sixty Krievos, four of the former were killed and horribly mutilated.

THE recent tragedy in Ashland, Ky., having excited intense indignation, threats of punishing the guilty, and Mountain Girl was chartered to carry the prisoners from Cynthiaville to Mayville. While making steam, the train from Ashland rolled in with about 500 determined regulators onboard. The Sheriff, with a guard of ten men, by an adroit movement, took the prisoners from the jail to the wharf. As soon as the crowd beheld the prisoners they started down the bank with loud yells of indignation, gathering arms and missiles ready for an assault. The Sheriff, seeing the mob descending, boarded the fiery-red with his party and turned her down stream. The mob took possession of the Mountain Girl and commenced a determined chase. The steamer not yet having sufficient pressure, soon fell behind, but subsequently got in shape and commenced gaining rapidly on the slow-going ferry, and in a short time approached so closely that a capture seemed imminent; but fortunately the Mountain Boy, a faster boat, appeared on the scene on her regular trip up from Ashland to Louisville. She was hailed by the Sheriff, pressed into service, and the party rapidly transferred to her. When the transfer had been successfully made the Girl, black with an excited, enraged and howling mob, appeared in sight, and the exciting chase was resumed; but the Boy soon distanced them. Further on, some inmates were transferred from the same Hudson River miscreants, who took charge of the prisoners, whereupon the chase was abandoned. The murderers were lodged in jail at Mayville late at night.
